College Sunday

From east, west, north, and south are coming letters from pastors and others to the office of the Alumni Association. What do they say? They all say substantially the same thing. It is something like this, "Yes, to be sure we plan to observe COLLEGE SUNDAY, November 16. We'll talk and preach and pray and sing about our School and then, don't forget it, we'll take an offering."

The new year is starting off in a fine way. We had worried about the enrollment. We were afraid the draft and the plentifulness of jobs would cut the enrollment down. We expected nothing else. But on the morning of the opening chapel service when Harold Phillips gave that fine address, the chapel kept filling up until just about every available seat was occupied. A finer group of young men and women have never come upon the campus. We are all thrilled about it.

Then about the third week of school, W. Dale Oldham, from Dayton, Ohio, came to preach to the students for a week. And Dale knows how to preach to students and faculty. His words were words of wisdom and his sermons were full of inspiration. Each of the five nights the chapel was full even though attendance was on the voluntary basis. A number of students were saved and many were inspired to more noble living.

So what you do on COLLEGE DAY, November 16, will help a campus full of young people toward a Christian education. Will you do it?

—J. A. Morrison

Former students miss a lot when they return to Anderson only in June. The School, as they knew it in their school days, meant classes, chapel, dormitory life, gymnasium, library, with almost every corner of the building pulsating with the life of youth. At camp-meeting time the atmosphere is of necessity different; so really to relive one's school days one should return at such a time as this.

When a former student does not return during the school year, he tends to feel that the School is different from what it was when he was here. That feeling of strangeness will never come to those who keep contacts up during the school year.

Among the things that will be different for those who come back for Harvest Ingathering this year will be the disappearance of the old attic, and the transformation of the Old People's Home into a Men's Dormitory. Those who returned last year will recall the fine modern library which has taken the place of the south half of the attic. Now the northwest section of what remained has been remodeled into a much-needed physics laboratory. Arrangements will be made for everyone who returns to see it, together with the modern physics equipment which puts our teaching of that science on a par with similar courses given in the better colleges of this section of the country.

A year ago the Gospel Trumpet Company reached the conclusion that the continued operation of the Old People's Home was feasible neither for a home for the few old people who remained nor as an apartment house. At that very time a conviction had been growing here at the College that we would need to do something to provide more suitable living accommodations for the men students. It was a happy coincidence, therefore, that these two lines of reasoning should find the generally satisfactory solution of using the building as a men's dormitory.

The homecomers will feel good, too, to see so many students enrolled. As far as we have been able to ascertain to date, we are one of the few schools in this section of the country to have an increase in enrollment this year. Many schools have announced a 10 per cent or more decrease in attendance.

The added attendance, of course, makes more mouths to feed. We have determined to keep the price of board to students low—just as low as we possibly can. That is the reason, then, why we are so anxious about the financial aspect of Home-Coming this year. There is at this writing every promise of the biggest home-coming to date. Alumni associations, congregations, and individuals apparently are going to respond as never before to the call this year. There is no reason why we should not pass the $5,000 mark in cash and produce.

As a general proposition we can do better in buying here in Anderson if we have the cash than we can with the produce. Of course, staple articles, such as flour, sugar, and large canned goods never go to waste, but perishable produce sometimes does before we can consume it. We have already heard that some who cannot come are planning to send in cash donations. It will indeed be fine if this movement can be country-wide, but we still want to see in person every former student who can possibly come. A full program of activities has been arranged this year. Everyone who comes is going to have a highly enjoyable time. May we look for you?

Record Enrollment

Anderson Gets New Physics Department

Those of you who were surprised to see the library housed in new quarters on the fourth floor at Home-Coming last year may have a similar thrill when you see a like transformation in the north wing.

For some time the College has needed to install a physics department to complete the program for some of the courses offered in the catalogue. Consequently, last spring plans were drawn for a physics laboratory and classroom to occupy the northwest wing of the fourth floor.

Workmen have been busy this summer transforming the old "catch-all" into a nicer place than the library (just ask President Morrison). There is room for three eight-student laboratory tables, two of which were constructed this summer and are fully equipped. A very fine instructor's demonstration desk was built and fully equipped. There are storage rooms and other things that go along with a physics laboratory, with equipment sufficient for a standard first-year course in college physics. More will be needed, however, if the enrollment in the department stays as high as it is this year.

I have not told everything. You will want to find out a few things for yourself, so just come and see. Will be seein' you November 17-18.

—Joseph Wiley

On the Campus

Wendel F. Byrd was a recent visitor in Anderson and told us something of his experiences as an army chaplain while on maneuvers with his regiment down in Louisiana. He is much interested in his work and is looking forward to the regular duties that will be his in the army camp.

The week of spiritual emphasis on the college campus was a very profitable one, with W. Dale Oldham as the speaker each week night in the college chapel (October 6-10). Brother Oldham gave some very splendid talks to the student body, which were well received and well attended.

Herbert and Lola Thompson are frequently seen in the College halls these days while they are holding a series of meetings at the Park Place Church. The students all enjoy their presence and their services in the church. The attendance of students in the church services is quite good and the interest they show is gratifying. Several have been saved and many helped by the services there.

—Mary Husted

Your Welcome

THE BOARD OF CHURCH EXTENSION WELCOMES YOU

From the office of the Board of Church Extension we have a view of the College campus which at the present time is beautiful with autumn colors. We wish we could preserve this until you arrive in Anderson for the Home-Coming.

We welcome you to the Harvest Ingathering, and also invite you to visit and chat with us in the office of the Board of Church Extension. There will be a free souvenir here for you, and when you come to get it please leave your name and address for the "Pioneer," a home-missions magazine.

We will see you on November 17.

—E. F. Adcock

FOREIGN MISSIONARIES READY TO WELCOME YOU

Daisy Maiden, of China, and Lars and Ellen Olsen, of Denmark, will be among the first persons to greet you when you arrive in Anderson for the annual Harvest Ingathering and Home-Coming of Anderson College, November 17-18. Your stay in Anderson will be all the more enjoyable because of your opportunity to have fellowship with these missionaries.

The Missionary Board takes pleasure in welcoming you for this 1941 celebration. Come over to the Missionary Board office and have a friendly talk with us. We shall be glad to share with you the latest news we have from your missionaries.

—Adam W. Miller, Secretary

WE'LL BE SEEING YOU

We'll be seeing you at the Home-Coming and Harvest Ingathering here in Anderson November 17-18, and we are inviting you in advance to go through our publishing offices and plant at that time. The number of people going through this plant has increased largely in the past few years until around five thousand people went through during the past year. We are very busy in every department, and you will see much of the machinery running and the largest force of workers that we have had in many years at this time of the year.

Be sure to visit our retail store and the Chapel of Bibles. You will probably wish to select firsthand your Christmas gifts, Christmas greeting cards, and other holiday items. During this visit you can see with your own eyes the fine quality of goods that we carry.

Do not hesitate to ask questions and to look around. This is your publishing house. Every officer and every employee is eager to please you. We'll be seeing you.

Tennessee, Lead On!

Clarence A. McGillen Sets the Pace for State Men and Pledges to Raise $500 for Harvest Ingathering in His State.

Here are his own words: "Even if the World-Service Budget were entirely raised, and our College received the full amount required to carry on her work, I think the annual Harvest Ingathering and College Emphasis Week is a healthy event for our Church. But since the College only receives about 33 per cent of the amount allotted it in the World-Service Budget, surely every pastor and layman in the Church of God who has a vision should lend his support to this campaign. We (in Tennessee) will set our goal at $500, and reach it."

Pastors and Field Men Endorse College Sunday And Fall Festival

Reading, Pa.: "This is our College and Seminary. It is our responsibility to keep its doors open and its student body well fed. Shall we rally together in this all-important task? We are counting on you. We cannot fail our youth; they have faith in us. Let us not betray that faith. We can reach our aim and by God's grace we will."—R. C. Handy, Pastor

Denver, Colo.: "I like the idea of a Thanksgiving offering for the College. We need some way of showing our appreciation for all the many blessings we receive daily."—Elmer Rich, Pastor

Miami, Fla.: "Personally, I am happy that we are to have this opportunity of a united effort to lift OUR College to a higher state of efficiency by freeing her from her bonds of poverty. We pastors know what it is to put over a program without sufficient finances, so I am happy in the belief that when the gifts are dedicated in the College chapel on November 18 WE, the churches of Florida, will show forth a united effort."—J. E. DeGarmo, Pastor

St. Paul Park, Minn.: "A number of years ago one of our older ministers made the statement that 'the future of the work of the Church of God, if it shall go forward, rests upon an educated ministry.' Certainly we know this is true. Where would our young men and women go to school to prepare themselves for the ministry and for Christian educational work if we as a people did not have a College and Seminary? Knowing these things ought to challenge each pastor to do his best to arouse his people to get behind the College with their financial help at this critical time."—C. W. Shultz, Pastor

Detroit, Mich.: "Brethren why can we not all get back of this Harvest Ingathering and Home-Coming this fall and make it a real success? Recognize in our congregations on College Sunday, November

Some Facts Regarding Tennessee

Tennessee is one of our southern states, with only 45 congregations, totaling less than 3,000 members in the entire state.

Only one or two Alumni or former student pastors in the state, and less than a dozen Alumni altogether!

They have made the largest pledge so far—$500—or an average of approximately $12 per church!

What These Facts Should Mean to Other States

Money can be raised for our Church school. If Tennessee can raise $500, then Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio can raise $1,000 each, or better, provided they have the Tennessee attitude!

Let's follow Tennessee!

16, what the College is doing, and give our people the opportunity to help this worthy institution by sending in their special offering. Or better still, if a number of the ministers from this state could go down for the Ingathering and Home-Coming and take their gifts of money and produce along it would certainly be a worth-while trip."—G. E. Swart, Pastor

Omaha, Neb.: "To accomplish our great goal of $5,000 will take the co-operation of every pastor and every individual throughout the entire Church. Brethren, we can do this, and easy, IF every one will do as the great General Booth one time so characteristically stated: 'For God's sake do something.'"—L. A. Hatch, Pastor

Muskogee, Okla.: "Anderson College and Seminary is educating and training young men and women who are established in the truth of this reformation that they may go out and fill responsible places in life. Oklahoma has Twenty-Nine STUDENTS ENROLLED NOW in Anderson College. We stand second as a state in enrollment. This large enrollment testifies to the great need we have for Anderson College for the youth of our Church to attend. The Church of God has always looked to the ministers of our state to support every worthy effort set forth, and we have never failed the Church yet. So let us carry on with the same spirit of sacrifice and answer the call of our School on this November 16 with a generous thank-offering."—Wiley H. Hall, Pastor

Chicago, Ill.: "We should do our best to support our Church college. Most of our churches have sent, or are sending, their most talented young people to this institution. The College gives the movement prestige in society that we cannot well afford to be without. Many of our successful ministers, teachers, and missionaries have prepared themselves within the walls of this splendid institution."—Myrle V. Cross, Pastor

Lima, Ohio: "I am writing letters to the pastors of Ohio asking them to observe College Sunday, and for a liberal contribution for the Harvest Ingathering this year."—C. L. Quinn, Pastor

St. James, Mo.: "Thanksgiving time is the psychological time to raise money. November 16 has been designated as College Sunday, and each pastor is asked to recognize the work of Anderson College and Seminary, perhaps by a message based upon the needs of a Christian College. A thank-offering could be taken on College Sunday. There are other ways in which money could be raised. How about a Thanksgiving banquet for your church? Have the ladies donate and prepare the food. Send out invitations to every member of your church, with a Thanksgiving offering envelope included. For two years we have done this in St. James. The first year we got about $190, and last year we got $225. One of the finest ways of expressing our thanks to God is by giving an offering."—Eustace D. Johnson, Pastor

Student Volunteers

Anderson College has a very wide-awake organization of Student Volunteers. Gerald Erickson, junior, is president of the state association; Juanita Hunnax, junior, is editor of "The Newsletter," the official organ of the Indiana association; and Miss Lopez is faculty adviser. In the October number of this paper, Gerald Erickson says:

"We who are active in this organization believe that we have a task to do, a task so large and so far-reaching that the immensity of it makes us fear and tremble. Yet, the world needs our message of a Savior and we must be bold—and with God's help we will be bold!

"At present we have a vision of the Christian students of Indiana meeting together, and through prayer, conferences, and fellowship avail ourselves of the strength that God has for us, strength for today's needs.

"Only a vision now, but before the school year is over such a convention is planned, with noted speakers in attendance."
