Why Not Come to College?

By President John A. Morrison

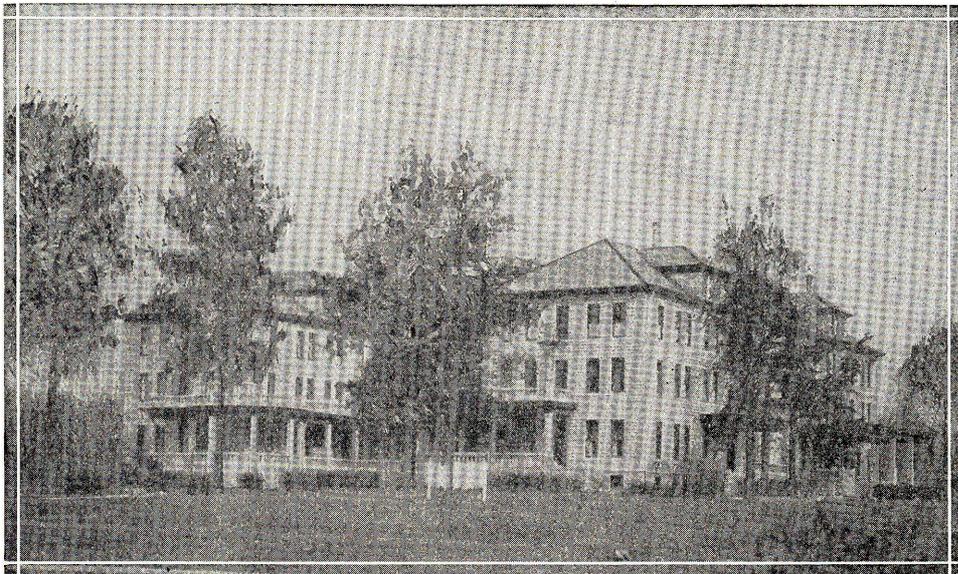

"It was the biggest blunder I ever made." The man who spoke was about thirty years of age. He was talking to a group of men on the street corner. I slowed up to listen as I passed by because it is forged ahead in life leaving him behind.

No college or institution of learning in the world can guarantee that its graduates will make good. But every reputable school would be interesting to guess how much more successful they could be were they adequately trained.

Let us not forget, too, that many of these unschooled men who are outstanding successes in their always interesting to know what a man's biggest blunder is, whoever be the man. "When I was a lad eighteen years of age," this fellow went on to explain, "I had the privilege of working my way through college, but I turned it down and wasted three or four of the most valuable years of my life. Now that I am older and know more about life and what it means I have wished a thousand times that I had accepted the job of taking care of old Dr. Clark's furnace to pay my way through school." This man went on to explain how that a number of his friends, who were the same age as he, had gone on to college and how that in almost every case these fellows had can and does guarantee that, other things being equal, the college trained man has a far better chance for success than does the non-college man.

Certainly we can point to hundreds of successful men who are self-educated men. We have these men in all walks of life. We have them in the ministry. We have a few of them even in the professions. We have them in statesmanship. We have them in business. Yes, we have these men who have been successful in spite of their lack of training rather than because of their lack of training. By the sheer force of personality and natural ability they succeed even with limited training. It line started on their career years ago and at a time when education was not considered so important as it is today. Even I can recall the day when a man could start to practice law or medicine or the teaching profession with a training slightly beyond that of the grammar school. If a man were going to practice medicine, all that he needed to do was to go to a so-called medical school for a few months and then come home and "hang out his shingle" and the neighbors would come in to be practiced on. He could undertake any case from the giving of a bread pill to the extracting of a dangerous tooth. But the public is not so gullible as it used to be. Science has not taught us all things but she has taught us some things. We now insist that, even in the matter of pulling a tooth, the puller must have attained to a certain standard in the science and practice of dentistry. And so in all other lines of work. Even in the ministry, we insist that the man who undertakes to lead us in the profound things of religion must be a man well informed. And so it has come to pass that our people more and more are taking it for granted that our young people must have a chance to go to school. Statistics are not at hand at this moment to prove it, but I feel safe in saying that more young people graduate from high school today than graduated from grade school in the first few years of this present century. And our colleges are turning out a greater number of graduates than did our high schools a quarter of a century ago.

And all this leads up to the observation that the young man or woman who cannot or will not secure a college education in the decade of 1930-1940 is going to be terribly handicapped in the '40's and '50's and '60's. To be sure, he will be handicapped in a financial way, but that will not be his chief handicap. I am not so much for the idea that a man should get an education so as to be able merely to make money, important as that is. The man without an education is hindered not only in making a living, but he is hindered in living. If one's education does not enable him to live better and happier and richer, he is poorly educated. Education is supposed to carry us into the realms of science, history, philosophy, literature, art, music, language, and religion. One's knowledge in these fields should make life sweeter to him and to those whom he touches. If he works, he works more efficiently and usefully. If he plays, he plays more happily and joyously. If he prays, he prays more intelligently and more in accordance with the Father's will. The old theory that man should be kept ignorant in order to be kept happy is vicious and un-Christian.

I know as well as anybody that these are hard times. I have every reason to know it, for I have talked across my desk to scores of young men and women who were in the grip of destitution. But still I do not grant that poverty should block the road to knowledge. A young man has just gone from my office who is working this summer for a few dollars per week. He is working hard. He is working at unpleasant work. He works long hours. Yet he is not discouraged. He keeps a stiff upper lip. He says to me, "I want to get an education. I can get an education. I must get an education." Good for him. We need more like him. Thousands more.

Here at Anderson we are planning every way to enable our own fine young people to get an education. A few thousands of them graduated from high school last June. Many of them feel called to the ministry. They are earnest and bright and godly. Most of them are poor. Many of them are working to support not only themselves but some of them have relatives depending on them. Some of them have a little money. Most of them are able-bodied and willing to work. The church needs and must have them. Without them her future is hopeless and dark. So, I say we are trying to help them. We give them all the work we can here at the college. Brother Rowe helps out by using all the student help possible at the publishing plant. The business men of the city believe in our type of education and many of them use our students. Our teachers work for almost nothing in order to bring expenses within the reach of our young people.

So far as I have been able to find out Anderson College expenses are the lowest of any east of the Mississippi or north of the Ohio. I appeal to our young people to put forth a special effort to be here for enrollment on September 18. Borrow some money if you can. Urge your relatives to help you. Maybe the local church can give a lift. Don't waste these golden days of youth. Write me and tell me something of your educational plans and problems. Applications are coming in and prospects are good for a large enrollment. Time is getting short. Write me at once and in your first letter tell me as much as possible about your circumstances.

"Beauty is truth, truth beauty—that is all Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know."

GETTING A PLACE IN THE WORK

William and Vada Fleenor, '26, '22, write of their work beside the Syrian Sea. Although Vada's health has not been good during the past summer she is stronger now and they are enjoying their work. They write that their older girl, Don Deena, is in kindergarten and Wiletta is "as entertaining as a kitten." Let us remember to pray for them as they give themselves in service to another land.

ON THE CAMPUS

President and Mrs. Morrison with Elver and Annabel Adcock attended the World's Fair over a recent week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sanders are remaining in Anderson since camp meeting.

Professor George Montague and Kenneth Ahrendt left recently for Colorado for a visit with Kenneth's parents.

A number of our students have found employment in Anderson during the summer. Jewel Horne and Myrtle McGee (a prospective student) found employment in the Ella B. Kehrer Sanitorium. Homer Beckett is employed by a local ice company. Edgar Williams is working at the Y.M.C.A. Lottie Brown, Louise Hagan, and Mildred Cover are engaged in housework. Charles Kissell is doing part time work for the Western Union. Edith Earlywine has a position with the Anderson Credit Bureau. Elsie Manthei has her same position with the Church Extension Board. Alvina Koglin is employed in the Editorial Department of the Gospel Trumpet Company. Wendell Byrd, Virgil Tucker, and Claire Shultz have paper routes for local newspapers. Ralph Benson and Cecil Brown are employed by the East Side Jersey Dairy.

How Professors Are Spending the Summer

Dean Olt in Boston

Dean Olt spent the first two weeks of the vacation season in Boston where he went as a delegate representing the Anderson Rotary Club, of which he is President, at their International Convention. He writes that the weather in that historic old town was unsufferably hot. While in Boston he was a guest in the home of Brother and Sister Hutchinson. Mrs. Hutchinson is an Anderson graduate. The Dean also plans a trip to California where he will assist in youth camps work near Los Angeles.

Professor Martin in Atlanta

The young pastor at Atlanta, Georgia, Reverend Charles Richardson, is spending the summer on the Pacific Coast and he and his church united in asking Professor Martin to supply his pulpit while he is away. Professor Martin climbed into his Ford and rolled away towards the southern city. The professor's son, Dan, went along to insure good driving.

In addition to pastoring the Edgewood Avenue Church of God, Brother Martin is taking some work at Emory University.

Miss Lopez Goes East

Miss Lopez is visiting her very special friend, Miss Helen Hansen, in North Bergen, New Jersey, and is getting a rest which she has been needing for a long time.

Miss Koglin to Leave America

A day or so ago Miss Koglin said a long, long good-by to Anderson and left for Minnesota where she will visit her people until fall when she plans to sail for Germany where she will engage in Religious Education work.

Carl Kardatzke on the Farm

Dr. Carl Kardatzke was reared on a farm near Elmore, Ohio. For a dozen years he has been in school. Before taking up his work here at Anderson this fall he must needs go back to father's farm a while. Just what he is doing on the farm has not yet been established.

Professor Clausen in Georgia

Professor Clausen accompanied by his daughter, Ruth, has gone to Bainbridge, Georgia, at which place he will conduct classes in vocal music. Before going to Georgia, he took Mrs. Clausen and the two smaller children to Nebraska where they will visit relatives.

Professor Linn Still at Chicago

A letter from Professor O. F. Linn states that he will spend the hot summer weeks at the University of Chicago where he has been during the past two years. He and Mrs. Linn did not even take time to come to the International Convention and Commencement at Anderson. They will be on hand for the opening day of school, September 18.

President Morrison in Camp Meetings

President Morrison is dividing the summer between work in the office and attending the various camp meetings over the country. He plans to attend the camp meetings at the following places: Boyertown, Pa.; Charleston, W.Va.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Depew, Okla., and possibly others.

During August he will spend a couple of weeks with Mrs. Morrison and the children, camping in the Ozark Mountains where fishing is fair and squirrel hunting is excellent.

Professor Haldeman at Northwestern

W. S. Haldeman and Mrs. Haldeman took time off to spend a day or two at the Anderson meeting during which time they made some necessary arrangements for moving to Anderson when college opens this fall. They had to hurry back to Evanston where Brother Haldeman will continue in school all summer.

Hartselle, Montague and Achor at Home

Professor Hartselle and Mrs. Hartselle will take their vacation in their apartment here on the campus. Professor Montague will also remain on the campus. Professor Achor will spend the summer building up his law practice over in the city.

APPRECIATION

In deepest appreciation for the recent action of the Alumni Association and for the individual messages bespeaking confidence and cooperation.

Dr. A. F. Gray Goes to Seattle

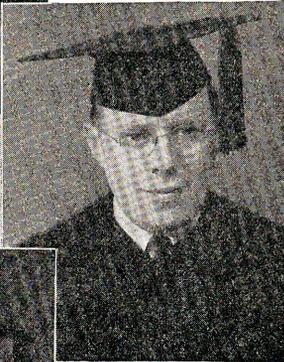

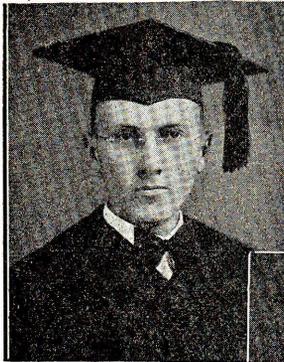

For seven years Doctor Albert F. Gray has been pastor of the Park Place Church of God. During his pastorate here Brother Gray has been vitally connected with Anderson College and Theological Seminary. Aside from being pastor of the church where most of our students attend worship he has been officially connected with the school in the capacities of Vice-President, Chairman of the Board, and Executive Committee member. In 1929 when R. R. Byrum resigned as teacher of theology, Brother Gray took his place in that chair for one year.

During all these years Doctor Gray has been a warm friend of our institution and all of us esteem him highly. As he assumes the pastorate in the great Western city we pledge him our prayers and best wishes.

Meet the New Members of Our Board

Anderson College and Theological Seminary is controlled by a board of trustees composed of fifteen members. Each year three members are elected for a period of five years. The three new members elected in June were: Rev. W. E. Monk, Rev. E. F. Adcock and

E. F. Adcock

W. E. Monk

W. C. Gray

Rev. W. C. Gray. They were elected to fill the expiring terms of Rev. H. A. Sherwood, Rev. L. W. Guilford, and Rev. R. R. By-

rum. These men whose terms are expiring have served the School long and faithfully as trustees and we are indebted to them for this service. These new men on the Board are well qualified to follow their predecessors in office. They are all men of wide Christian experience, deep spirituality and all of them have a keen interest in matters educational. They have been loyal friends of the School throughout its history.

THE DISCOVERY OF TRUTH

There are some truths—the greatest of all—which can be discovered only in action. You try to say to some man, who needs to hear it said, that it is better to be chaste than licentious; that the fleeting intoxication of a lustful moment, followed as it always is by a sickening sense of uncleanness, is not to be compared to the delicious sense of physical and moral fitness that is born of a pure heart. "Prove it!" he retorts. Can you do it? No, only he himself can "prove" it. You try to say to some young or middle-aged flapper, who needs to hear it said, that thoughtless, irresponsible, self-centered life is as moonlight unto sunlight, as water unto wine, compared with the kind of life that Miss Jane Addams has lived in Hull House. "Prove it!" she demands. But, of course, you cannot "prove" it; the truth of what you are saying can be discovered only by experiment. You try to say to some tempted, troubled spirit, "There is One who is able to do for you far more abundantly than you ask or think. God is not the Great Illusion. He is the great Reality in whom you live, if only you were aware of it, and in whom you might find rest for your weariness, strength for your weakness, light for your darkness, and salvation for your sin." "Prove it!" he pleads. But he alone can "prove" it by launching out into the deep of a great adventure.—The Rev. Ernest Tittle

Mary Husted and Lura Reynolds are busy with office duties. With grade-recording, bookkeeping, correspondence, quartet schedules, filing, mailing the Broadcaster, checking stock, purchasing supplies, and making general preparations for the new school term the office is a busy place during the summer.
